

Quite simply, incorporation is the process of defining your business, both legally and strategically. You wouldn't build a house without a plan and a paper trail. So why build a business that way?

By choosing an LLC, s corporation (s corp), or c corporation (c corp), you have the freedom to decide on a tax structure that works for your business.

Why Incorporate?

The Top Six Reasons for Incorporating Your Business

1. Personal asset protection
2. Tax flexibility and incorporation tax benefits
3. Enhanced credibility
4. Brand protection
5. Perpetual existence
6. Deductible expenses

S Corp, C Corp, or LLC: Which One Is Right for Me?

Business goals aren't one size fits all and neither is incorporating. When deciding which kind of corporation fits your business strategy, consider some of the different benefits that each kind offers.

S Corporation:

- Elimination of double taxation of income
- Investment opportunities
- Once-a-year tax filing

C Corporation:

- Unlimited growth potential through the sale of stock
- No limit on the number of shareholders
- Tax-deductible business expenses

Limited Liability Company:

- Simplicity
- No residency requirement
- Structure flexibility
